JAMBALAYA YEAR BOOK OF UTULANED UNIVERSITY 1915

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2010 with funding from Lyrasis Members and Sloan Foundation

AMBALAYA was a triumph of the Creole kitchen, a delectable mixture of wholesome ingredients, the best products of Southern energy favored by Southern fertility and climate. Our Annual aims to be true to title and type, and the measure of its success lies in the nearness with which it approaches the qualities of Tulane and Newcomb, and the co-operation of every student and every department. Its preparation is the duty and tribute of college spirit, and gratitude to and pride in Alma Mater. Its purpose is to preserve the record of the year, to inspire fellowship, and to link the loyalty of the sponsor classes to achievement and advance. The scope of the book has been handicapped, like the great University itself, by the lack of means. For this reason, it may be of added use as a reminder of the ceaseless appeal and the constant need. Meantime, it is the witness of history and the spokesman of progress. It is not ideal, but it is Tulane's own; it represents earnest effort and sincere desire to serve the common cause. It is our best, but, even if the volume does not realize expectations, we trust it will be cherished for its intent and its associations.

The Board of Editors of the 1915 Jambalaya Dedicate this Volume to

Professor of General and Clinical Surgery, Medical Department For his eminent services to humanity, to science, and to Tulane University For the fame he has added to her name For the inspiration of his example, and for the influence of his high standards and altruistic ideals

R. MATAS was born at Bonnet Carre, La., September 12, 1860, and was the son of Dr. N. H. Matas, a prominent physician of Spanish descent. He received his primary education at Barcelona, Spain, Paris, France, and Brownsville, Texas. Returning to New Orleans, he attended Soule College, but his graduation occurred at the St. John Literary Institute, Matamoras, Mexico, in 1876. He selected medicine as his career, and received his training and diploma at Tulane University, in the class of 1880. That same year he began practice here, and from the first he showed rare ability as physician and surgeon. In 1895 he decided to specialize in surgery, in which he had already won international fame, and that same year called him to the chair of surgery in Tulane's great medical department. Later he accepted the senior surgeonship of the Touro Infirmary, and the same rank in connection with the Charity Hospital, in addition to his professorship and practice. Many public and professional honors have been bestowed upon him. He is first lieutenant of the Medical Reserve Corps, U. S. A., was president of the Louisiana Medical Society, 1894-95; chairman Section of Surgery, American Medical Association, 1908; president American Surgical Association, 1910; president Southern Surgical and Gynecological Association, 1911; vice-president American Society of Clinical Surgery, 1908-10; honorary president Pan-American Medical Congress at Washington, 1895; vice-president for Louisiana, 1896; vice-president College of Surgeons, 1913; rapporteur on arterial surgery, by invitation, Section of Surgery, Seventeenth International Medical Congress, London, 1913; and is prominent in other influential scientific bodies. He was editor of the New Orleans Medical and Surgical Journal, 1883-95; is the author of many treatises and monographs on surgical subjects, and a frequent contributor to leading medical journals and text-books.

In Memoriam
John Angus Campbell Mason

JOHN ANGUS CAMPBELL MASON, born May 14, 1880, at Stratford, Ontario, Canada; died at the same place, September 1, 1914. He graduated from the University of Toronto first in first-class honors, and took his master's degree at Columbia University, where he completed his residence work for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. He was awarded scholarships or fellowships in history by Cornell, Columbia, and the Universities of Toronto and Wisconsin. He wrote nine works on historical or political subjects.

As Professor of History and Political Science, Mr. Mason spent years at Newcomb, where he won the respect, admiration, and esteem of all. A devoted scholar and faithful teacher, he felt that no effort was too great that was expended in the interests of his students. Indeed, he sacrificed himself in his earnest effort to give to them the best that could be given.

Newcomb is deeply grieved by his death, and mourns one who, to quote the "Torontonensis," was:

"A gentleman and an historian—an historian and a gentleman, I know not which the more."

In Memoriam

Judge James McConnell

URING the past year the University has been called upon to mourn the death of one of its most distinguished officers. Judge James McConnell, Vice-President of the Board of Administrators of Tulane University, passed away on November 21, 1914, after a long life full of important achievements and crowned with many honors. He was born in Baton Rouge, La., September 5, 1829, and, after Faving studied law in Virginia, and in New Orleans under Christian Roselius, entered the Law Department of the University, from which he was graduated in 1851. His professional career was exceedingly interesting. It fell to his lot to participate in many great lawsuits, some picturesque on account of the personages who appeared as litigants, others significant because of the far-reaching principles involved. Perhaps the most notable achievement of his career at the bar was his masterly management of the litigation in connection with the bequest by Mrs. Josephine Louise Newcomb of her large fortune to the University. Judge McConnell represented the defense. Years of patient and disinterested labor went into the work of preserving to Newcomb College Mrs. Newcomb's superb gift, and Judge

McConnell had the gratification of seeing his suit ultimately triumph in the highest courts. Important as this service was to Tulane, it was but one of many which he rendered to the University. Judge McConnell was a close friend of Paul Tulane, the generous founder of this great institution. It was through his instrumentality that the Tulane fortune was devised to the people of Louisiana. He it was who drew up the legislation which made it possible for the youth of Louisiana to enjoy the educational advantages desired for them by Mr. Tulane. Judge McConnell became a charter member of the Board of Administrators and was elected to its vice-presidency, a post he held from that time to the day of his death. Judge McConnell's activities touched many phases of life—he was a distinguished Confederate soldier; he served as a member of the Legislature of the State of Louisiana at a critical time in the history of this Commonwealth; and he was prominent in the Church. A man of wide sympathies, of extraordinary learning, of varied gifts, he bore a splendid part in the life of New Orleans and of the State; and in his death the community, as well as the University which he had served so long and so well, has lost a leader whose place it will not be easy to fill.

ADVERSITY

HILARITY

'ULANE UNIVERSITY looks back for its beginning to the Medical College of Louisiana, which was organized in 1834 and chartered in the spring of 1835. It issued its first degree in March, 1836, the first in medicine or science ever issued in Louisiana. Tulane University as it stands today represents the contract, giving to the Tulane administrators perpetual control of the University of Louisiana, which the men to whom Paul Tulane entrusted his donations entered into with the State of Louisiana. In the opening of his letter to the administrators, dated Princeton, May 2, 1882, he writes: "A resident of New Orleans for many years of my active life, having formed many friendships and associations dear to me, and deeply sympathizing with its people in whatever misfortunes or disasters may have befallen them, as well as being sincerely desirous of contributing to their moral and intellectual welfare, I do hereby express to you my intention to donate to you by an act of donation inter vivos all the real estate I own and am possessed of in said city of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, for the promotion and encouragement of intellectual, moral and industrial education among the white young persons in the city of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, and for the advancement of learning and letters, the arts and sciences therein. " Tulane's first gift amounted in value to $363,000, and subsequent donations raised the total value of real estate donated to $1,050,000, with an annual rental of $75,000. The result of other donations since the time of Mr. Tulane's generosity have been the Richardson Memorial Building, the Josephine Hutchinson Memorial Building, the F. W. Tilton Memorial Library, the endowment of the chair of botany by Mrs. Ida A. Richardson, the donor of the fund with which the present Richardson Memorial Building was erected. A donation of $25,000 by the United Fruit Company has made possible the establishment of the Department of Tropical Medicine, Hygiene and Preventive Medicine, to become the School of Tropical Medicine as soon as a sufficient foundation warrants. The further maintenance of the Department of Tropical Medicine, Hygiene and Preventive Medicine has been made possible by the gifts of Mr. Edward Wisner, of $500 for the year 1912-13 and a promise of an equal amount for four years thereafter; of $600 by Mr. R. H. Downman, and of smaller amounts, all of which have been of material aid. The College of Medicine has received the sum of $500 anonymously, given for the furtherance of the investigation of leprosy, and several sums given by Mrs. Isadore Newman for research in the Department of Pathology. A new engineering building, the Stanley Thomas Hall, was recently built with a bequest of $60,000 from Mr. Stanley O. Thomas.

By the will of Dr. Watson D. Woodward, of Port Jefferson, Suffolk County, New York, who died in October, 1913, there is given to the Tulane Educational Fund for the exclusive benefit of the Dental School the sum of $28,000 and the residue of his estate, all subject to life use by several beneficiaries under the will.

The Tulane Library has been enabled to add greatly to the efficiency of the Department of English Literature and the Department of History through the munificence of Miss Betty Bierne Miles and Miss Margaret Linda Miles. The gifts of Miss Betty Bierne Miles, amounting to $2,500, have been expended in a valuable collection of standard works in English and American literature. The gift and bequest of $6,000 from Miss Margaret Linda Miles has been used to purchase standard works in history. Both these gifts were made in memory of William Porcher Miles, in whose honor a tablet has been placed in the library.

An athletic field which includes a stadium and large grandstand has been provided on the campus at a cost of about $10,000, contributed largely by the Progressive Union of New Orleans.

A legacy of $10,000 for a drinking fountain on the campus of Tulane University for the benefit of its students was given by the will of Livia Hatch Bryant, of Colorado Springs, who died in February, 1914. The bequest is in memory of her father and it is to be known as the Hatch bequest.

The H. Sophie Newcomb Memorial College was the result of a donation of $100,000, in October, 1886, by Mrs. Josephine Louise Newcomb to the Tulane administrators for the establishment of a memorial to her only daughter. Mrs. Newcomb added largely to her original endowment and enabled the college to build the handsome group of buildings in which it is now domiciled. By her will, the University was made her residuary legatee and has received for the benefit of Newcomb College an additional bequest of about $2,700,000. Newcomb has since been the recipient of a bequest of $65,000 from F. Walter Callender.

Under Article 230 of the Constitution of 1879, the Legislature of the State recognized the three departments—Law, Medical and Academic—of the University and granted $10,000 annually until 1884, when the administrators of the Tulane Educational Fund waived this provision on the part of the State. During the three decades subsequent to 1884, the Tulane University of Louisiana has reached its present proportions, and now comprises the Graduate Faculties, the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Technology, the H. Sophie Newcomb Memorial College for Young Women, the College of Law, and the College of Medicine. The last named includes the Schools of Medicine, Pharmacy, Dentistry, Hygiene, and Tropical Medicine, and the Post-Graduate School of Medicine (Polyclinic). The H. Sophie Newcomb Memorial College includes the Schools of Art, Household Economy, Music and Education.

At the close of his letter Mr. Tulane expressed himself as follows: "With devout gratitude to our Heavenly Father for enabling us to form these plans, and invoking this divine blessing upon you (the Tulane administrators) and your counsels . . ." As we review the steady progress of Tulane University we feel that the wish expressed by Mr. Tulane has been granted. To Mr. Tulane and to other men and women kindred in spirit, devoutly grateful to the Heavenly Father for their large opportunity to serve, we owe this University, our precious heritage. Their memory shall be very dear to us.

shall be, also, our abiding inspiration.

And she knows all the latest styles of fixing up one's hair. Now Worth and Paquin both have gone to fight the bitter foe, She'll become a star in castuming and make her styles the go.

KATHERINE O'MEARA

New Orleans, La.

N. A. A. (2, 3, 4); Dramatic Club (3); Class Secretary (3); Debating Club (3, 4); Summer Committee (3).

Katherine is so careful—so remarkable, indeed— That in the future Newcomb her services will need; She'll take down Dr. Dixon's notes, his syllabuses, too, Because 'twill take quite all her care to keep her point in view.

MILDRED POST, H B Φ New Orleans, La.

N. A. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Dramatle Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Secretary (2); Business Manager (1); French Circle (3, 4); Treasurer (3); Vice-President (1); Dramatle Club Play (1, 2); French Play (3); Les Cigalières (2); Sub Basketball Team (2, 1); Chairman Summer Committee (2); Chairman Pniversity Night Summer Committee (1); Class Vice-President (1); Historian (2).

Mildred says that her career is making a debut,
But we don't think that that is all that she is going to do.
She writes good prose and poetry—her talents are so fine
She'll have a second "coming out" in the literary line.

ELLA REISS, $HB\Phi$, [V]New Orleans, La.

N. A. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Class Basketball Captain (4); Basketball Team (2, 3, 4); Dramatic Club Play (1, 2, 3, 4); Les Cigalières (2); President Dramatic Club (4); CHEER; Boob Club; Newcomb German Club (2).

Ella's torn between two things—dramatic art, you see, Is one absorbing subject, and also psychology. So in dramas psychological her talent she will try, And on the front row there will be a Beta Theta Pi.

EMMA ROBBINS Congress Park, Ill.

Senior Art; President Art Student Body (1); Class Treasurer (1, 2); Class President (3); Art Basketball Team (2, 4); Bushness Manager Art Team (3); N. A. A. (2, 3, 4); Dramatic Club (1, 2); Field Day (3); Student Council (3); Fanny Estelle Holley Memorial Prize (3); U. B. S.

Emma will be noted as a graduate in art;
In making Newcomb famous she will always play a part.
Her ecrtoons and clever drawings will be known throughout the land,

And masterpieces from her brush will be in great demand.

Helen Sanders, A 1 11 Troy, Ala.

Regular Professional Music; I. S. W. N.?; J. U. G. (1, 2, 3, 4); N. A. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); President Music School Student Body (11) Vice-President (3); University Chorus (4); President of Glee Club (3); Executive Committee (4); Dormitory Student Council (3, 1); College Student Council (1); Glee Club (2, 3, 4); Editor for "Jambalaya" from Music School (3).

Helen a supervisor of music wants to be, Wherever she'll he sure to get the highest salary, But in all her questions she'll avoid the use of one word "Stein," 'Cause "Kolh's German Tavern" it brings always to her mind.

RIETTA SIMMONS, Φ B K New Orleans, La.

Class Historian (1); Latin Club (4); Debating Club (3, 4); Mandelin and Guitar Club (4); X. A. A. (1, 3).

Rietta will be known as a philosopher of fame;
Her articles upon all things will make her quite a name.
But "arguments" will bring her the greatest of success,
For she's practiced with our Dicky Bird, as you perhaps will guess.

Mabel R. Sivewright, $KA\Theta$ New Orleans, La.

Class President (1, 2); Vice-President School of Education (1, 3); Manager Education Basketball Team (1); Member (1, 2, 3, 4); Historian (2); Dramatic Club (2); Summer Committee School of Education (2); Y. W. C. A. (3, 4); Secretary Home Economics Club (2); President (3); Member (1, 2, 3, 4); Student Volunteer Delegate (3); N. A. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (4); Assembly Committee (4); Captain Education Basketball Team (4); Business Manager of "Arcade" (4); Business Manager Class Play.

Newcomb is not lacking in feminists and we Will show you Mabel Sivewright in the future. She will be A worker for the Suffrage Bill in Congress and will do So much she'll be responsible for making it go through.

BERENICE B. STEELE, A 11 III Greenwood, Miss.

Senior Art; President Art Class (1, 2); Art Editor 1915 "Jambalaya": Class Editor (2, 3); Art Editor to "Arcade" (4); Vice-President Art Student Body (4); Student Council (4); Assembly Committee (4).

We find Berenice's college course will help us to agree What fome and fortune for her in the future there will be For long, the one and only in her class, she'll be in life And we foresee she'll always be her husband's "only" wife.

ALICE VAIRIN, Π B Φ , $[\checkmark]$ New Orleans, La.

Dramatic Club (1, 2, 3); N. A. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); President of Class (1); Sub Class Basketball Team (2); Summer Committee (2, 4); Summer University Night Committee (4), Class Play Committee (4).

Alice will make her debut and in society
Just os she did in college, win popularity
To Germans, Frenchmen, Spaniards, if she meets with one of these

She'll speak Lis native language and put him at his ease.

VIRGINIA WILLIAMSON, K K I' Asheville, N. C.

Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 1); N. A. A. (2, 3); J. P. G. (1, 2, 3, 1); Dramatle Club (4); Newcomb Business Manager "Tulane Weekly" (4).

Louisiana topography is not to this girl's taste
Had it mountains like old "Cragie" 'twould be a better place
So she took a "rocky" course, in knowledge will gain perfection
Since for "rocky" mountain climbing she has such a predilection.

ROBERTSON LIVERMORE BELDEN

Robertson will always be the luckiest man alive Since he started out as mascot for the Class One-nine-one-five.

There Is a Castle In the Air

(Tune: There Is a College in the Town.)

There is a castle in the air, in the air; Will winsome maidens e'er sit there, e'er sit there, "New Newcomb" is our daily diet; In flesh and blood and true reality, Or will they always phantoms be? Plans and blueprints complicated, Eighteen ninety-four are dated;

Dr. Dixon is elated, but he does no more. No one can ever keep him quiet. Electric lights, HOT water, screens and baths galore, He SAYS for us he has in store.

Newcomb Freshman Class History

Old Mother Newcomb is a witch! She has a cauldron hot;

She seized young high school graduates And stuck 'em in this pot.

Into the cauldron, Vim she put, And Talents great and small,

Oh—Muscle, Brain, and Spirit fine, And Wit—she put 'em all

She mixed, and mixed, and stirred 'em round, Strange smoke could one behold:

It rose from out the cauldron's rim In colors Blue and Gold. And then each Teacher took a taste Of Nineteen-Eighteen Stew. While at each spoonful handed out The praises louder grew.

Straightway the College ordered then (Though bonds were in arrears), Sufficient of the cauldron's brew To last through four long years.

Old Mother Newcomb prophesies, And we believe the same.

That many years to come will shine With Nineteen-Eighteen's fame.

-By the Class Poet.

Freshman Art Class Roll

Hip boom rah! never a class so smart As our class—our class—1918 Art.

There's Eunice Baccich, whose magic touch we know, Woos the very flowers from Gentilly Row.

Clare Bancroft, our little "hammer heel3" so fair, Causes the statues to look down and stare.

Dorothy Blakely, whose work shows talent great, Will succeed in anything she may undertake.

> Miriam Danziger, though she tardy be, Has learned right well to paint a tree.

"Jack" Henderson, who'd rather dance than eat. Has accomplished many an artistic feat.

> Harrison Hester, who proves giggling anti-fat, Is something of an artist for all of that.

Wanda Simmons, who's always faint From want of food—but she sure can paint!

> Edna King, our quiet little mouse, Knows the correct perspective of a house.

Emily Langham, according to Newcomb rumor, Finds even "Fine Art" full of humor,

Fay Moales, joy of the fun-loving bunch, Will "paint" you an artistic lunch.

Emmeline Robert, in terms of perfect French, May depict us all a few years hence,

> Augusta Schmedtje, our President so fair, Is worthy of her honored chair, Effic Skinner, our giggling Texas maid, Knows the difference between light and shade.

> Madge Verburg, next thing that we hear, Will be calling the frames and pictures dear.

Dr. Dixon Song

Now you all know Dr. Dixon, he's a man of national fame. With great respect we doff our hats at mention of his name, If the lightning strikes our college or the furnace gets too hot You never have to worry, for he's Johnny on the spot.

In case of disappointment don't forget to send for him, For he can easily fill the bill and do it up in trim; For he knows all about it, philosophy or gym. In case of disappointment don't forget to send for him.

If Miss Frotscher should be absent, he will take the German class And to "sprechen Deutches" correctly he will teach each struggling lass. If Miss Shelley doesn't come some morn, there's no need to condole, You'll find him teaching Freshmen how to make a button-hole.

If the European nations only had a little sense The international issue wouldn't be upon the fence, For if they want mediation it is plain as plain can be That the only plan of logic is to send for Dr. D.

History of Senior Arts and Sciences

HE last stretch, and then over the line. The men of 1915 as Seniors look out on the world with confidence. They see a world that has grown more rosy-hued with each year spent in college. Strong weapons, forged in the smithy of their Alma Mater, await their grasp. They know their weapons, they respect their world, and are eager to put them both to the test.

But the present is so crowded with thought and action and meaning there is little time for thought of the future. Rich fruit has mellowed even in the lightning flash of time that has passed between Nineteen Eleven and Nineteen Fifteen. Hearty and tender friendships, exchanges of thoughts and inmost feelings, and faithful response to the highest responsibilities of student life make every minute golden.

Replete with effort and achievement, the past calls up thoughts only of satisfaction and pleasure. Unusual aggressiveness and team work distinguished 1915 from the beginning of its Freshman year. A single fight was held with the Sophomores, the widely respected Class of 1914, in March of that Freshman year, to decide the tank. It was a draw, and thus neither side became discredited. In debate 1915 broke all precedents at Tulane, for she was the first Freshman class to beat the Sophomores in this event.

With gathered momentum in its second year, the class, not as individuals, but as a whole, asserted itself and advanced on a career of unremitted activity in a way that has seldom been paralleled at Tulane. Instead of a single contest, seven contests were fought out, and 1915 wound up in a whirlwind finish, took the track meet on the first day of examinations, late in May, and next day gave a tank party. Newcomb 1915 were the guests of honor, and the united class gazed up with rapture and pride as the figures 1915 went encircling the tank in red and blue.

Yes, chivalry has always been 1915's chief characteristic. While still Sophonsores, they had already applauded at their Newcomb classmates' basketball games, had thrown over their own colors and adopted the red and blue of their classmates at Newcomb, and had joined them in the first underclass banquet in our College's history, which took place down in the old Newcomb gym. The two classes smiled at each other on Tulane night. They put it over the Freshmen in a manner truly outrageous. They closed the Sophomore year with prints of the tank, a gift of the Newcomb Class of 1915, which were distributed to the thousands assembled to view the spectacle of University Night.

What if 1915 was divided into A and S's and into Techs in her Senior year? was united the first three years. What if her members feel that they are scattered? old friendships continue. And the broader duties of University life have long since, in large measure, taken the place of the class activities, anyway.

Fertile in ideas, active in carrying those ideas out, fortunate in leadership, chivalrous and enthusiastic, is it any wonder that 1915 calls herself lucky? HISTORIAN.

Junior Arts and Sciences History

E, the Class of 1916, have just completed the third lap in the race preparatory to our entering upon the races Fortune may have in store for us in the future.

A backward glance over the records of our class presents no miraculous accomplishments, no world-startling achievements. No, Newcomb has not even been induced to desert its old haunts for the neighborhood of our uptown campus. However, our records do present a group of steady, earnest workers, struggling ever for individual improvement, Tulane's advancement, and the laying of a sure foundation for the Future's "Greater Race."

Why should we go back to enumerate the steady, upward steps of the growth of the Class of 1916? You, kind reader, know them all. In every branch of old Tulane's activities the representatives of 1916 may be found at the front, fighting, not at all for personal glory, not entirely to gain for their class the supremacy over all others, but to maintain for Tulane the place she has ever held.

True, 1916 has met defeats, defeats sometimes bitterly discouraging. But, how can there be attainment without a struggle? And what mortal body never met defeat? As we view the three years of training 1916 has spent here, our faith in the "Eternal Fitness of Things" is fully confirmed, for from victory and defeat our Junior Class comes forth worthy to uphold the name and honor of fair Tulane.

And it is safe to predict, if a history may dip into the future, that after the coming year, when 1916 shall have completed the final lap in its race of preparation, it shall go forth into the world of men and affairs, conquering and to conquer, the brilliancy of its past accomplishments undimmed, and the future ever opening greater accomplishments to its view.

Freshman Arts and Sciences History

1918 is our number, Excelsior is our creed, In glory we will slumber, For we'll win in word and deed.

STANDS for college "Feeling," for which we Freshmen are noted. It is a commentary on our spirit that three of the men arrested Thanksgiving Eve were Freshmen. "F" also stands for "Football," in which sport we played the Sophomores to a scoreless tie, although they outweighed us twenty pounds to the man.

"R" stands for "Readiness," "Righteousness," and "Resoluteness," which are to the Freshman as "Liberty," "Equality," and "Fraternity" are to the French.

"E" is for "Earnest" desire to learn; "Excelsior." This "Earnest" desire to learn is a trait rarely found in Freshmen, which only adds to the extremely exceptional excellence of our class.

"S" is for "Slow but Sure," our motto. As events have proved, the Class of 1918 has steadily advanced since its matriculation on opening day. Through our inexperience and lack of training under the admirable (?) instruction of Physical Director Hanson, we found ourselves unprepared for the "Tug of War" and "Wrestling Matches," in which events the Sophomores showed to a slight advantage. But the "football game!"!!! Nothing can be said to overestimate the pluck, courage, heady and clean playing of the Freshmen.

"H" stands for "History," in which our class will be remembered as having discovered some new atomic weights.

"M" is for "Manhood," the flower of which in respect to intellectual and physical power and moral stamina is contained in the glorious Class of 1918.

"A" stands for "Action," college "Activity," the keynote of the noble Class of 1918.

"N" is for "Non-pariel" and "Notability" of Class of 1918, which will go down in history as one of the best classes, if not the best class, that ever connected itself with dear old Tulane. HISTORIAN.

Sophomore Technology Class History

INETEEN SEVENTEEN'S glorious achievements on the Tulane Battlefield during its Freshman year were so illustrious as to need no historian to recall them at so early a date. Besides, kind consideration for the present Juniors prompts us to dwell sparingly on that first year. To say that four immortal victories and three show-downs placed the class above everything in college (it being on the tank) will suffice. Let us pass.

Oh, Noble Sophomores of Nineteen Sixteen, You'd have been all right if we hadn't been.

Hostilities at Tulane for the 1914-1915 session began on September 29. The Prof. Brigade held the field beforehand, planning the future campaign, most of them having spent six weeks in summer-school training camp, where we are told they received excellent practice skirmishing with a battalion of skirts. The student infantry swept the field in force on the opening day, concentrating their attack on General Bruff and Major Benjamin Crump, both of whom responded with great valor.

During the first day's campaign, the interclass feud broke out between Company 17 and Company 18, the first clash occurring in the field of Audubon. Both sides dug trenches and threw up fortifications for the struggle, which waged furiously for several minutes. Company 17, however, excelled, and administered two drenching defeats to the first-year men, dragging them from their breastworks and towing them through Lake Tug-of-War.

The second encounter of the feud occurred soon after on the Plain of the Mat, where Company 18 suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of 17's men.

Interclass hostilities then ceased until December 5, when 17 and 18 again locked in deadly combat on Gridiron Heights. Both sides had been training for this encounter for several weeks, and the ensuing struggle was a bloody one, raging up and down the field for several hours. The pigskin shell played an important part in the battle, being used by both sides with telling effect. So hotly contested was this encounter that it was impossible to tell who were the victors.

There are four battles yet unfought, however, and 17, who up to this time is undefeated, promises to show the freshies a thing or two about interclass warfare.

In the meantime, let us not forget the main struggle with the Prof. Brigade. The Brigade has laid a siege of exams, the horrors of which not even war terms can describe. According to some members of the Student Infantry, the war tactics employed by some members of this Brigade would not be justified in the most savage of savages. Most of 17's men are good soldiers, however, and are showing valor in the struggle. We know this is only a minor campaign in the big battle, the great battle which we are fighting and will continue to fight. But we hope that this campaign will help us, when the smoke of battle clears away, to look within ourselves and around us and to say: "We have fought a good fight."

Freshman Technology Class History

T last we have entered upon our University career, a career which has been our goal all through our high school work and ever since we graduated from the grammar schools. There is no doubt that this career will be a difficult one, but we feel competent to hold our own against the professors as well as against the Sophomores; and, even though our first attempt against the Sophomores resulted rather inauspiciously in our setting a criterion of excellence for the aquatic aspirations of many generations of Freshmen and Sophomores to come, our latest attempt has turned out rather favorably, since we held the Sophomores scoreless in the football game.

These things, however, are of no paramount importance, since our Freshman year at best is but an introduction to the real knowledge that is gained mostly in the last two years of our course. It is on account of this fact that our history is so short, for, as it were, we are becoming acquainted with the goddess of knowledge and are just beginning to assimilate her wisdom.

It is useless, perhaps, to tell you that our class is a class replete with genius, for you are probably already acquainted with that fact and realize that in the succeeding years of our course we will make so much history that our Senior Class historian will have a considerable task in keeping our record correct.

Senior Law Class History

S we are about to bid farewell to dear old Tulane, we experience sensations of joy and sorrow. We are eager to begin our race on the highway of life, but at the same time we cannot help feeling regret as we leave the halls where for three years we were so carefully instructed in the mysteries of the law. Tulane has been a tender nurse, and has aided us in our difficulties during our student days.

Now that we are to put into practice those principles that were so carefully inculcated in us, we hope to do everything that will bring glory and honor to our Alma Mater. May we ever keep high in the air the banner of that institution of learning for which the whole Soutbland is famous!

When we gently murmur, "Vale," and leave the portals of our University, we do not intend to sever our connection with our College forever. We are merely entering a broader sphere of life, where we hope to distinguish not only ourselves but also old Tulane.

On the Refectory Porch

ELLO! That you, Dad? Well, listen; tell mother and the folks I won't be home tonight. This beats hell. Oh, Dad, you ought to know better than to fling any of those old proverbs at me. If it will do you any good, though, you can tell Mother Proserpina I am staying over to attend a lecture at the Y. M. C. A. Well, 'so long'; here's a fellow waiting to speak to me."

His Royal Highness greeted me with a smile and a cordial handshake. "I don't know who you are, but I am certainly glad to see you," he said, and continued: "I hope, though, you are not one of those pesky Tulane Weekly reporters; they bother the life out of me, but you can bet they never get anything. Yes, whenever they come around I wad everything I know up inside of myself and clamp the lid on."

"No," I told him, doing the best I could to conceal my guilt. "I am a commission merchant. That is—er—I try to sell Jambalaya subscriptions on commission," I was compelled to tell him, for I knew the truth would shock his princely soul all the more if it should come from some other source after I had concealed it.

"Oh, that's alright. You know, Father meets a lot of you fellows in his business." I must confess I was rather nonplussed by this statement, for it was the first time I had ever heard of any of the Jambalaya canvassers going to Hades, and what business they might have had there I was unable to comprehend.

"Do they ever succeed in selling King Pluto any Jambalayas?" I asked. "Certainly not," the prince replied; "we always use kerosene to kindle the fires with."

"How's business with you people, anyway?" I asked, anxious to change the subject. "Pretty bad," he replied; "although we import plenty of raw material from Europe, it is not of the best quality. The trouble is with the Germans," he went on. "You see, those fellows bring so much sauer kraut down there with them they are continually putting out the fires."

"But don't you still get material from the United States?" I asked. "How about those trust magnates and all these stock brokers and railroad presidents? Surely all those fellows haven't quit tobogganing down the Hadeian speedway?"

"Yes," answered Beelzebub, "they have. You see, most of them are either regulated by the government or else getting very religious; that is, they are getting so bald there's scarcely a hair between them and heaven."

"But don't you get any Tulane students these days?"

"Oh, yes; but they are very poor material for a decent devil to work on. The Freshmen have to be heated by steam and dried out first, because most of them are too green to burn; and the older students insist on calling for beer and starting a Noridirg the minute they get near the bonfire."

"Sure, we get some of the faculty, too, but most of them are too absent-minded to be of much use. You see, my father delights not only to see them roasted well, but loves also to hear them yell when they are put on the fire to broil; and most of these faculty chaps get to figuring out the square root of the fourteenth dimension or some such problem and forget all about yelling."

"But aren't you a student at Tulane now?" I asked him.

"Sure, and it's bully, too. I was just phoning to let Father know that I intended to spend the night with a friend in the dormitory when you came in."

"If I am not too inquisitive, why do most of the fellows go to Hades, anyway?"

"Because they are told that Hell is literally paved with Dance Halls, Cafes and Autos."

"Has the High Cost of Living affected your fellow townsmen?" I ventured.

"Sure," he said. "Dad had to keep up with twentieth century progress; so in spite of the fact that it is the coldest winter we've had in years, the thermometer even going down to the boiling point one day, he raised the price of ice water to a dollar and a half a glass. Well, so long. I'd like to talk to you more, for I see by your questions you must be one of Dr. Aldrich's economics class, but I've arranged to meet a fellow at Carruth's in about fifteen minutes."

Senior Medical Class History

S historian of the Senior Medical Class, I shall attempt to give, in a general way, a sketch of our life at Tulane for the past four years. For various reasons, many of which are obvious, it will be impossible to give a detailed account of our doings and undoings, which would fill volumes. For this and other reasons, many of the details are omitted, and what is here represented is simply a tabulation of the greater things concerning our life as a class, our successes, our failures, our days of sunshine, and our days of rain.

On October 1, 1911, the medical department first opened its doors to us, a promising aggregation of embryonic young medicine men, filled with vigor and determination to master the art of healing. This day, on which we stepped out upon the platform and announced our intention to become doctors of medicine, and to devote our lives to the relief of human suffering, is, indeed, a red-letter day on our life's calendar.

Now that we have fought the battles and are nearing the goal, let it be known that the road has been hard and filled with obstacles, but, following the course that was so carefully planned for us by our superiors, we were, as Freshmen, able to lay a firm foundation upon which we have gradually placed our bits of knowledge. We are now soon to go forth to spread its usefulness and influence in the interest of humanity upon communities throughout the country.

Here let us note, with regret, that some of our original members did not see the need of so firm and carefully prepared foundation, and the consequence has been that they, one after another, at different stages of our development, have disappeared from our ranks. Some few built their foundation, but did not partake sufficiently of the material handed out to them since that time. These, also, have perished. We note their loss with regret. Fortunately for us, we have welcomed to our ranks many who took their first years in other harbors of learning. These have been untiring in their struggle and have aided materially in helping us to gather the bits of knowledge poured out to us, thus assisting in making our final efforts a success.

I will now give a short synopsis of the trials and tribulations that came to us year by year.

We began our Freshman year with all the enthusiasm of youth, thinking very lightly of the magnitude of our undertaking; but soon we were confronted by the difficulties of the dissecting room and the chemistry laboratory, which, at once, made us realize that we had branched out upon an entirely new path of life. The promise of becoming some day worthy followers of medicine began to make itself felt even in this year, and the zeal with which we performed our manifold duties, and the diligence with which we accomplished our tasks of the hour, brought forth commendable expressions from our instructors, which we accept as sufficient evidence of our worthiness to become students of medicine. During the year the superior University spirit prompted many of our members to don football togs and baseball uniforms, and go forth to help uphold this phase of university life, although the crowded curriculum and the earnest desire for medical knowledge prevented many others who would have otherwise indulged freely in athletics.

At the end of this year, with few exceptions, we were pronounced worthy to proceed further and take up the duties of the Sophomore year.

This chapter of our history finds us considerably advanced on the road to maturity, with our youthful enthusiasm somewhat changed to a conservative line of thought, directed along more appropriate and rational channels. The difficulties of this year were numerous, with many complicated subjects and intricate problems to master; but we had by this time become sturdy soldiers, and by constant attention to duty we were able to overcome them with credit to ourselves and satisfaction to our professors.

The opening of our third year brought us to an entirely new field, and we almost felt for a time that same youthful enthusiasm of our Freshman year. The wards, clinics, and operating rooms of the hospitals were at first strange to us; but we soon acclimated ourselves and came to realize more fully than ever the magnitude of our work and the responsibility which rests upon those who give their lives to the care and relief of suffering humanity. At this time we began to develop that genuine earnestness and untiring effort of the true and noble medical man. With this earnest and untiring effort we fought the battles of the year, during which we acquired much valuable knowledge. Again, being victorious, we were pronounced, by those far our superiors, ready to pass to the dignified position of Senior, which position we feel that we have filled with honor to ourselves and satisfaction to our professors.

But here we are bound to confess that the struggle has been long and filled with difficulties; but we know that success as a practitioner of medicine is never reached except at the end of long, hard struggles. Therefore, we realize now that we have been subjected to these seemingly hard tasks only to prepare us to overcome the many obstacles we are sure to encounter on our road to success. Now that we have about reached the end of our undergraduate career, we feel that we have accomplished much, and, although it is indeed our commencement, we feel that with the foundation and training we have had, combined with continued earnest study and attention to duty, it will surely lead us into the realm of worthy and successful practitioners of medicine.

Before leaving these halls we desire to express, with the utmost sincerity, our gratitude to the entire teaching staff for their willingness to assist us at all times and the patience with which they have borne our shortcomings, and through whose efforts it has been possible for us to acquire the knowledge on which to base our future life. We also wish to express our thanks to our librarian, Miss Rogers, for the many times she has gone out of her way to make our burdens lighter and our tasks easier.

Now, in conclusion, let me say that we fully realize the responsibility of our position, and it will be our constant endeavor to so conduct our lives that we may uphold the dignity of our ancient and noble profession, and do honor to the grand old name, TULANE.

Junior Medical Class History

HREE years ago we entered the stately halls of Tulane University, imbued with the spirit of Aesculapius, and swore a "mighty oath," not unlike that of our famous predecessor, Hippocrates; resolved to give the medical profession the benefit of our vast and marvelous knowledge.

During this great interim, some have departed from our ranks; several new faces have been added to our midst; friendships have been formed and broken; and many "sleepless nights" have been spent (on a drunk), but the class as a whole has survived the "terrific fire" to which we have been subjected. At all times we have used "our God-given gift of reasoning and power of discernment," and with the aid of a few "therapeutic doses of Digitalis," "compensation" has been re-established.

It is with pleasure that we note the brilliant successes achieved by some of our illustrious members. "Pete" Charbonnet has been appointed associate editor of the "Saturday Evening Post," and, last but not least, Solomon's worthiest pupil, Enoch Callaway, has startled the medical world with the remarkable assertion that "hypnotics and anesthetics are not essential for sleep production in the lecture room."

No matter how far we may be from civilization—"Come chappies, make a break, damn it"; "Focus, Max"; "We Pathologists"; "Beautiful little dendrites"; and above all, "Dere iss tree possibilities—either id iss or issn't or bodt," are echoes that will forever ring in our ears.

Sophomore Medical Class History

N CLOSING the second chapter of our history as disciples of the great Hippocrates, the reveries of the past carry us back to the days of pleasure, when, as babies, we were assembled under that fearsome and mighty hand that holds sway over the ignorant and innocent Freshmen—but there is still fresh in our memories the physiological ordeal through which we have lately passed (the lucky ones passed).

Though the Class of 1917 has been faced by the addition of new courses and more art work, it has held its own in the foremost ranks of student activities at Tulane. The class is representative in all branches of athletics—Underwood tore things up in football, Gage and Brown (Captain) control the baseball team, and Fenno as basketball manager has kept this branch of athletics in the limelight.

The class has always been noted for its intelligence and represents to the student body a model of "what students can do."

Its officers are: President, E. M. McKenzie; Vice-President, D. H. Coleman; Secretary and Treasurer, W. A. Ramsey; Representative to Tulane Weekly, E. D. Hardin; Representative to Jambalaya, Fred Fenno; Historian, Emmett (Puss) Irwin.

Under the leadership of our worthy President, we may now see the curtains beginning to fold back in order that we may gaze upon a brighter and broader horizon, upon which is engraved the word "Junior."

Freshman Medical Class History

HE halls were filled with an eager set of onlookers, some austere and serious, some (less) smiling and joyful, and a few hilarious and enthused. The occasion was the opening of the present college session. Years before, a group of seventy-odd individuals had pictured in their minds a time when they should reach their majority and should matriculate in the medical department of some great university. They represented the best that Dixie could wish for; coming from the old stock that gave individuality to the Southerners. In addition to these, there were a few others from the North, East, and West, who, too, decided to attain their M.D. in dear old Dixie Land—and now, the realization of their dreams. Text-books, matriculation cards, all figured prominently in the minds of the embryonic "les docteurs" of the order of Aesculapius.

Work began in earnest, associations and friendships were created, social and fraternal relations fostered, and last, but none the less important, a feeling of college spirit and enthusiasm stimulated the members of 18's class. Elections for football, basketball, baseball, and other activities claimed some attention, but seemed of little importance in comparison with the dissection of the brachiae plexus of Beane, the hunts for the Neissl bodies of Hardesty, and the solution of Metz's unknowns. Now a word as to the famous curiosities of the memoirs of the passing years.

The Steps,—if only the creeping ivy could but separate the many secrets unfolded to its hearing; if the cigarette and cigar stumps could unfold the mysteries of their smoke; and finally the granite walk, worn by the clattering of the "bones" and the rattle of the pecunia.

The second bell has rung, the anatomy class is assembled. Can we ever forget the impressions the odor of the stiffs made on us on our first entry into the dissection room? Then first aid, plaster casts, bandaging on idiopathic individuals, especially the night before a quiz, thence to go spend an hour or two with boys; "us'ns don't have no trouble when us'ns knows how." "Please, I beg of you." We now see our good German friend who dotes on "as it were" and "what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." The day of reckoning has come, quizzes are like everyday stories, yet we have never been able to reconcile ourselves to the exams, which mean our salvation or destruction, and which cost some of us sleepless nights, increased consumption of coffee, loss of adipose tissue, destruction of gray matter, etc.

Soon we will be no more mere Freshies—our Sophomore year is on the highway. What has been accomplished and what does the future keep in store for us? Remember, my classmates, our's is a profession, one of many purposes and attainments. Those of us who study medicine on our own initiative can readily conceive of the many ways in which we can help mankind—others who seek the arts of Hippocrates and Galen for parental satisfaction cannot but recognize that studiousness means proficiency, therefore to whatever class we belong, let it be our aim to gain all that may be secured, for remember, ours is the foundation for a future building. So now, considering the many advantages we have, not only by education, but also by moral enlightenment and social environment, let us strive to improve by every opportunity which presents itself to us. Remember, Class of 1918, life lives only in success. One thing is forever good, and that one thing is attainment.

"What though success will not attend on all; Who bravely dares must sometimes risk a fall."

History of Senior Dental Class

E ASSEMBLED three years ago with the aspirations of all becoming professional men. As time went by we became associated with the various medical branches included in our course. It is with great satisfaction that we acquitted ourselves very well, even in chemistry, the "bugbear" of all Tulane students. We set a new record in the Dental Department. As time went by we could hardly realize that we had to leave the campus and its pleasant environments.

In our new abode we were consoled for our loss of the campus by the exhilarating effects of "laughing gas" and the ejaculations of those who declined its administration.

As the wheel of time rolled on we became firmly united as a class. We are now lamenting the fact that we are now to say good-bye to dear old Tulane, good-bye to the dear old class of 1915, which always strove for the betterment of its department.

Lovitis

EFINITION:—A disease characterized by a peculiar sensation in the precordia, an unexplainable attraction for a certain member of the opposite sex.

Etiology:—The true etiological factor in this disease is a little brown-haired, blue-eyed vixen, with a large dimple, which becomes more prominent when she smiles. The disease is usually sporadic and sometimes prevails in the parks and on the auto highways on moonlit nights.

Symptoms:—The onset is usually gradual, but sometimes sudden, as in the so-called cases of "love at first sight." The initial symptoms are those of anxiety and melancholia. As the disease progresses the prodormal symptoms develop rapidly, until an alarming stage may be reached. The individual afflicted, although perfectly rational before the onset, now becomes morose and melancholic. He says and does foolish things, and usually devotes a large portion of his time to writing poetry, singing love songs, and sitting in a large chair staring into the distance and talking to himself. There is an accompanying loss of appetite and weight. The patient looks with suspicion on any of his boy friends that may be seen in the neighborhood of the cause of his disease. He usually opens a bank account and begins to save a large portion of his salary.

Treatment:—Long sea trips have been recommended for this condition, but it seems to have been the experience of a large number of authorities on this subject that these trips aggravate rather than alleviate the condition. The patient should be allowed to remain quiet and the parents of the victim should refrain from expressing their opinion on his condition, as this may precipitate a sudden termination of the disease in marriage.

He should be allowed to go out with the boys as often as possible, so that he may forget the condition from which he is suffering. This is especially true of moonlit nights, when the symptoms seem to be worse.

For temporary relief the following prescription may be tried:

| R | Sublimate of bliss | 5T |
|---|----------------------|--------|
| | Syr. of kisses | F5TSS |
| | Tulip salve. | 5T |
| | Honey | 5T |
| | Elix. of bullaa q. s | . F5IV |

Sig:—Use whenever opportunity offers. If this does not afford relief it may be necessary to resort to a minister, as he can often cure patients afflicted with this disease when the doctor has failed.

ROLAND F. HOTARD, M.D., '15.

The Appeal to Loyal Newcomb

THE DAY BEFORE THE GAME

"Girls, Newcombites, Tulanians, lend me your dollars.

"I come to weep over L. S. U.'s corpse, not to praise him.

"The football men's play lives after them.

"The games you see live in your memory,

"So let it be with the one on the morrow.

"The fake L. S. U. hath told you Tulane was a coward.

"And do you heed the tiger, the treacherous heast of the jungle?

"And L. S. U. is an honorable team.

"Will you compel me to show you this honorable team?

"If you have tears prepare to shed them now.

"You all do know these colors.

"Look you here! Here it is marred by Tulane!

"Good friends, sweet friends, let me but stir you up,

"To such a sudden flood of spirit, for they that have done this deed are honorable men.

"I am no orator.

"But I tell you that which you yourselves do not know-

"Our brethren are already in the field. Why stand we here idle?

"Is staying at home so dear or studying so sweet as to be purchased at the price of missing the game?

"Forbid it, almighty Newcombites! I know not what course others may take, but as for me,

"Give me Thanksgiving football or give me death!"

"Your Move Next"

HY weepest thou, O sister mine! Go easy there, don't muss up that proverbial dresser drawer; it received a monthly cleaning yesterday. Come on now, tell your affectionate sister the cause of this sudden rage."

"Yes, I guess so. A darn lot you care whether a German mine or a dumdum hits me this very minute! There, I refused to go to the Fresh.-Soph. game tonight . . . curses, why do you use all the hairpins? . . . thinking some kind young man might do the family a favor and take me to Marie's dance. Now, you have two painfully good-looking boys to take you to the game and 'this little pig's got none.' Oh, well, such is life! Say, can't you leave my clean handkerchiefs alone?"

"Why, essence of sweetness, how my head aches! I have a thought. Mein Gott in Himmel, if it could only be. Gather around me, sis, and listen. You and I are almost alike, both are called Twinnie; all that's wrong is our hair and dresses, and that bally little Englishman will never notice it. Quick, Watso, my glasses, I have a clue. Tonight you go down when he comes; Jack will be late, so you make Harvey take you to the dance instead of the game. Hold me while I laugh."

"Sis, you're a regular Kaiser for thinking up plots. Harvey is just my ideal man, moustache—cane—and dances like an angel. Oh, I could write terza rimas about him. I worship his eyes and hair. But, Sis, he is madly in love with you; what on earth will I do with him?"

"Cease this childish prattle. Whatever Harvey asks you, say 'Yes;" behave like a babbling Bess; don't let him edge in a word sideways and remember to call him 'Kewpie.' (Exit first twin.) "At last I shall go to the game alone with Jack—no cane—no moustache—all man and the light of my eyes." (Curtain.)

Scene II. Six hours later. Sitting on the front porch. "By Jove, Twinnie, you startle me tonight with your beauty. This is the first chance I've had to talk to you since the dawnce began. Twinnie, darling, have you pondered over what I said to you last night?"

"Yes."

"Is it all right, my dear?"

"Yes, Cutie."

"Gawd, I'm the luckiest dog on this whole earth; I will do as you asked me, by George, I promise you. Tell me again, Twinnie, don't you know, just for luck."

"Why-er-no, Cutie, let's don't say it over again, you remember well enough."

(Twinnie's brain processes). "Yes—yes—oh, I mean no—what on earth does he mean?—I might have promised to take poison for all I know—Oh, this brainstorm—if he finds out and doesn't love me any more I'll die of a busted heart. Yes—ye—y—."

"Twinnie, my sweet, why so melancholy this Gawgus evening?"

"Yes—I mean I don't know?"

"When shall it be, any day you say, my love?"

("I wonder if he wants me to go tomatinee.")

"Harvey, dear, you are the most adorable thing on earth to have asked me and I live for the time. Let's make it tomorrow."

"Oh, my darling girl, kiss me as my own Twinnie should (great alarm) before we go into the dawnee again. Tomorrow it shall be."

"Good night, my love, I shall never forget this night. Tomorrow at two my car will come for you."

"Goodnight, Cutie, I shall be waiting for you."

"Cu-t-i-e?"

"I—I—I d'dn't mean Cutie, I meant Sweetey." (So help me, Lord.)

"Dawling, it used to be Kewpie."

"Did it, oh yes, but you see I changed it. Sweetey is much nicer."

"I can hardly bear to leave you, my Twinnie."

"Au revoir, Monsieur Von Amour, it is late." (Exit Englishman.)

"Oh-h, Lawd-e-e, what time is it, is it morning?"

"No, boob, it's two thirty. I just came in."

"Great guns, how did you stand him that long. Oh-h (enormous yawn), but I'm tired. Freshman beat—20-10—"

"I don't care about your Freshmen, let me tell you about Harvey."

"Harvey-da-darn Harvey. I get seasick when you mention it's name."

"All right, smartey, just for that I won't tell you."

The sun shone on the next day and the Lord saw that it was good. Finally the afternoon came and with it a serious accident.

"Miss Adrienne, der sho' is a big ca'trivance a-waitin' on you at de do' and, bless me, if he ain't done sent you de beateness lookin' bowque l ever seen, and all tied up wid ribbons and smellin' lak de angels ob God."

"Yes, mammy, I'll be down in a minute."

DEAREST SIS: I won't be home for a long time—why?—simply because I'm married. When I left Saturday it was with the intention of going to matinee with Harvey. Instead I went to the Justice of the Peace. It's all your fault, you told me to say 'Yes' to everything, and I did. You certainly didn't expect me to know that he had spilt the beans, and was waiting for an answer that night. I wanted to tell you when I came home, but you got seasick so we just up and married the next day. You poor simpleton, you made him promise to get rid of his moustache, so just after we were married he begged to be excused and had it shaved off. Oh, my beautiful dudey looking moustache—and I dasn't let on for fear of being found out. Nevertheless, I'm the happiest bride on earth. Whatever you do, if you love me at all, never tell my husband that he married the wrong girl.

Harvey's yacht is wonderful; we will be home in two months. Good-bye, my darling sister.

MRS. H. J. HAMILTON (Stung).

Kappa Delta Phi is a Junior-Senior society, organized for the promotion of college spirit at Tulane University. It seeks to obtain its object in two ways: First, by holding forth membership as a reward to those who have done more than the average man for their University, thus fostering and encouraging unusual effort; and, secondly, by binding together those who have made unusual effort, thus becoming a force for greater good by securing unity of action.

THE Tulane University Student Council consists of the Presidents of the student bodies of the University, Newcomb included. The Constitution provides that the officers shall be: President, Vice-President, Treasurer, and Secretary; that the President shall have power to call a meeting of all the Class Presidents whenever he shall deem it advisable.

It is the duty of the Council to regulate, manage, and direct the student affairs of the University in all general student matters, leaving to the various departments the regulation, management, and direction of those matters pertaining only to these departments. The Council organized on March 13, and elected officers. The members are:

HE Equal Suffrage Club of Newcomb was organized in the year 1914 by Nettie Barnwell. The purpose of the club was to furnish to those who sympathized with the cause of woman suffrage an opportunity of studying the question in its real and fundamental character. Prominent speakers have at different times addressed the club. The club started with a small membership, but in a year's time it has made great progress, and still greater progress will it make in the future until, when the suffrage is granted to women in Louisiana, it will turn forth citizens who will appreciate the value of the ballot and, armed with knowledge, will exercise their rights in the proper spirit.

The Dreamer

AUL, Paul!" There was note of despair in the woman's voice.

Paul scrambled to his feet. "I'm sorry, Mother, I'll go back to work. I just couldn't help coming here to watch the brook and trees and things. They're all so beautiful," he added dreamily. He was gazing out over the green. How he did hate the plough!

His mother surveyed him scornfully. "Yes, that's always the way," she burst suddenly, her frail body quivering with anger. "We have to struggle for existence and you only sit and dream, dream! Your only defense is that you are sorry. What are your dreams going to do for you when I am no longer here to drive you to work? Why can't you be worth something as your brothers and sisters are? I'm sick of tihs. You go back to your work, and if you leave again for your dreams, I'll thrash you."

Paul did not reply. He was used to his mother's passionate unbraidings. He did not resent them. His only thought was one of half unconscious pity for her weakness. For a moment he stood watching her, then he turned and went back to work.

The sun glared down unfeelingly upon the open field. The earth, dry and hard from lack of rain, offered up all its rocks and stones to resist his plough. Bess, the halffed horse, staggered and stumbled forward in a zigzag fashion, while Paul tugged and pushed with all his strength to keep the plough upright.

"I'm going to learn to work," he announced courageously to himself. "I am going to show that I am worth something. I have not meant to worry Mother, but ploughing is so hard. There isn't anything beautiful in all this heat." His eyes wandered across to the green beyond. There the trees did not let the sun burn.

"I will go and sit there for just a little while," the boy mused. "I can come back and work." He looked about him. In the distance he could see the figures of those untiring workers, his brothers and sisters.

"They have been working a long time," he went on; "I wonder if they never get tired, and how they keep from running away to the brook. It would be nice to be like them. I am going to be some day—maybe." He moved uncertainly. "I—I ought not to go, but I'll come back; I'll take Bess to get a drink." And Paul went back to the brook.

"It is a very charming spot, indeed; I hardly blame the boy for spending his time here." The voice was very kind. Paul started from his reveries and listened. one was approaching from behind.

"So, I knew I'd find you here. Get up and speak to your uncle." This time it was his mother's shrill voice which sounded quite close to him.

Paul obeyed and shook hands somewhat shyly. He had often heard of his father's brother who lived in the city, but he did not remember ever having seen him. He seemed to be a very nice sort of fellow, considering that he was rich. Paul liked his smile.

"So this is Paul," the man said slowly, laying his hand on the boy's shoulder. "Paul's Paul," he muttered, gazing into the boy's face. "Yes, you are very like him, very like your father, my boy, very like my little brother. Your mother has been telling me," he continued in the same even tone, "how you are always running away from your work to spend your time idly here." The boy moved uncomfortably. "It is a lovely place to spend spare moments, but you should remember that you have your share of work to do first. What do you do here alone?"

Paul dug his toe into the ground. "Oh, I just sit and wonder what's over there," he answered simply, waving his hand towards the other side of the green.

The man smiled. "There are a lot of things beyond this beautiful little spot that you have never dreamed of, my child, and some day you shall see them. I would like to take you back to the city with me this evening, but I have to go elsewhere on business for your mother. I am going to give you my address, though, and when you have done your work well here I am going to send for you." He held out a card. Paul took it uncertainly. He did not quite understand the sympathetic kindness of this strange man. It was very different from anything he had ever known.

"So now, my boy, I must go. It is almost train time," his uncle added, glancing at his watch. "You are going to remember to do your duty and make a man of yourself." He pushed back the shaggy locks from the boy's forehead. "He hasn't that brow for nothing, Kate."

Paul stood watching them out of sight. He was conscious of a new feeling, a new desire to do something, he did not know what, that he had never known before. He looked over the green. Tall trees lined the horizon. He clutched the card. Some day he would know what was beyond those trees.

The night was cool and damp, and the moon rose high in the heavens. Paul sat gazing into space. He was conscious of the splendor of the night, but he did not heed it. He only sat and stared. Presently he tilted his chair against the wall and moved restlessly. His fingers fumbled a card, and he strained his eyes to read it though he knew it by heart. Through the months since his uncle's visit he had read it over and over. In that name and address were all his boyish hopes. He had waited patiently, but when would he be sent for? True, he had faltered in his work, but he had tried to be faithful. He could never learn to plough. He swung one foot in the air and moved again. The day's work had been unusually hard, and he had run away to the brook. He blamed himself for it, but somehow he could not resist. Tonight he felt that he could contain himself no longer. His fingers twitched nervously. He remembered having gone to the city once. It wasn't very far away. He thrust his hands deep into his pockets. He rose and walked to the edge of the porch. A half mile down the moonlit road was a station. Sometime that night a train would pass on its way to the city. Must he stay here forever? He turned suddenly and walked into the house. A single lamp from his room threw a light across the little hall. The intensity of the silence startled him. For a moment he hesitated, then went into his room and closed the door softly behind him.

Fifteen minutes later Paul was starting down the road. His face and hands were clean. He had exchanged his overalls for a suit of past generations; his cap for a straw hat, whose only support was his ears. In one hand he clutched a box, in the other a few dollars and a card. He walked straight ahead. He dared not look back, hardly dared to go on. The trees waved warning fingers at him; the night birds cried out their protests; mechanically Paul walked on. He knew only that he was going to the city if his money would take him; that he was running away from the plough.

Two men stood silently surveying their surroundings. One was tall and well built, still in the prime of life; the other, bent and enfeebled with age.

"Yes this is the same old place, but the little house has fallen and the brook has run dry." It was the younger man who spoke; in his voice there was something like regret.

"Eh, my lad, the brook has run dry and the house has fallen. Time has no respect for anything." The old man bobbed his head thoughtfully. "Everything has changed, there is nothing as it seemed to be. I wonder what your mother would say if she could see you now?" he added not without pride. He looked up at the face above him. "She wouldn't know you, but for those same dreamy eyes of yours, and that brow. I always knew that meant something."

The younger man came back from his reveries. "No, she wouldn't know me, uncle," he answered slowly. For a moment neither spoke. "What an ungrateful scamp I was to run away from home," he mused presently.

The old man shifted himself on his cane. "It may seem so," he said, patting his nephew's broad shoulder; "but where would you have been if you had not come to me? Who would the people have to go wild about? What would we do for those marvelous paintings of yours?"

Paul did not reply. It had been many a day since he had watched the sun go down behind those trees. He was drinking in the grandeur of the scene.

"Yes, yes," the old man chuckled on to himself, "I am glad that I could help him, I am glad." He shook his head. "Truly," he quoted, "A thirst that from the soul doth rise, doth ask a drink divine. He was not made for the plough."

THE recent action of the Board of Administrators in imposing a compulsory athletic fee has undoubtedly injected new life into the financial part of athletics at Tulane. In spite of the generous response of some of the students and alumnae in making voluntary contributions and buying season tickets, the Association was continually falling behind. But now the whole aspect of things is changed. Although our troubles are probably not all over yet, still the most menacing seems to have been put to flight, leaving the Association free to do some real constructive work.

The payment of the athletic fee will entitle every man to a season ticket to every sport and a vote in every election. This should materially increase the attendance at the games and give added impetus to our ever growing Tulane spirit.

All's Well That Ends Well

HIS is the view taken of our 1914 football season by all loyal Tulanians. From a critical point of view our past season would in all probability be looked upon as a failure, but we are coming more and more to gauge the success of our athletic teams in much the same light as do Army and Navy.

If Navy goes through a disastrous early season schedule, it has no effect upon her judgment of her season if she is able to trounce Army in their annual game.

So it is with us. We feel that we can afford to lose even a majority of our early season games if we can come back strong on Thanksgiving and defeat or hold our ancient rival, Louisiana State University. Therefore, when we "came back" on "Turkey Day" and held L. S. U. to a 0-0 score, we finished what, in a great many respects, we can call the greatest season in years.

The outlook at the opening of school was none too bright. However, upon the arrival of Coach Sweetland "things began to pick up" right away, and inside of a week even the most pessimistic were forced to take a different view of things. From then on, until the end of the season, there were three teams on the field for practice.

There was more genuine spirit displayed by this year's team than any team that we have ever put out. It was this spirit that kept the fellows fighting in every game, and enabled us to hold L. S. U. when their team greatly outweighed us and had the advantage of a soggy field. This spirit was imbued into the student body, for who has ever seen a greater exhibition of spirit at Tulane than that shown during the L. S. U. game, when hundreds of Newcomb girls and Tulane boys stood in a pouring rain and cheered from start to finish, and made that twenty-sixth of November the best Thanksgiving ever?

So, why shouldn't the season of 1914 go down in our history as one of the greatest? In this season we did two great things—tied L. S. U. and established a standard of genuine spirit and pluck for future college generations to uphold.

THE NINETEEN FOURTEEN FOOTBALL SQUAD

- GARRETT GEORGE—"Frosh"—"The High School Girls' Delight"—'Twas often we heard above the din as the Cap skirted the end for thirty yards something like this: "Come on, Garrett! Oh, Garrett!" And when tackled roughly: "Oh, dear, I hope he isn't hurt!"
- G. GATELY—"Trixie"—Here we have pictured the gamest little end in the world. Hats off to him, we say.
- ED FAUST—A newcomer in Tulane football. His only worry is that the football field is not a mile long. His showing on Thanksgiving last makes us think that he will bear watching.
- VICTOR ROSENTHAL—"Rosie"—Here we have a bunch of noise; but he can bust hell out of interference, too.

FRITZ OAKES—"Chemie"—The girlies call him Forrest, which is correct as far as we know, but those who know him on the gridiron think "Chemie" is better.

CARL WOODWARD—"Swede"—The cheerful tenor in which this small youth yells "Give 'em hell, Tulane!" rivals Caruso. His beautiful blond hair gives him an advantage over Cap'n Garrett with the ladies.

PETF. MAII-LES—"The Sidney King"—Our 1915 Captain. We are all with you, "Kink," old scout. When he trolls casually upon the gridiron we hear something like this in awed whispers: "Isn't he grand, Mabel? Gee, I wish I had his hips."

EVERETT FICK—"Sleeter"—That's his real name. Some grand finis did Everett make. We hope to see him start the 1915 season in the whirlwind style of last Thanksgiving Day.

- HARRY JERWICK—It is rumored that Harry used to do strong man stunts on the Orpheum stage, then escaped to become Tulane's heavyweight wrestler; but that doesn't alter the fact that he is some center.
- IKE ALDERETTI—"Ike" hails from the country of horse thieves and coyotes, but regardless of this he is there when it comes to pigskinning. He made his debut in 1914, but will still be in the limelight another year or two.
- NICK JOHNSON-"Napoleon"--He can sho' talk it up. There are very few guards of his weight in the country that get away with all that Nick does.
- J. MERAUX—"Meester Joe"—I-le's almost as tall as he is wide. A fullback from his shoes to his hair. With his figure we think he would look well in a "mother hubbard."

LOGAN McCONNELL—"Mack"—A modest, well-meaning youth of few summers. His first year on the Varsity was a success, and we look for "Mack" to shine much brighter in years to come.

SUMTER MARKS—"Old Man"—Ex-Cap passes into the Great Beyond as a football player, but will be at school a few years longer. It is with great sorrow and regret that Father Time and the S. I. A. A. won't let us hear his bark just one more year. The Old Man has certainly had an eventful and enviable football career.

SELLERS UNDERWOOD—"Undie"—Interference is his middle name. He's a terrible flirt, girls! Don't believe a thing he tells you.

CHARLIE LARKIN—"When do we eat, Manager?" He's the best manager in the world until someone hides his shoes, and then he is the champion cusser of the universe.

The Nineteen Fourteen Baseball Season

ULANE'S 1914 baseball record shows a balance of one game to the good. Out of twelve games played by the squad drilled and tutored by the veteran coach, Bruce Ignatius Hayes, Tulane won six, lost five and tied one.

With peace in Europe, and everybody but Louisiana State wishing the Olive and Blue nine success, Tulane did the right thing by opening with two straight wins over the strong University of Mississippi team. The second game was a peach. The finish was, anyhow, for the ninth inning saw "Ole Miss" several runs to the good when our boys went to bat. With Coach Hayes' generalled runners on all the bases and two men out, Pitcher Gage won a sensational contest by slamming a high fly to the outfield, which was dropped. When the bases were sober Tulane had won, 3 to 2.

Following this series, Tulane won two farcical contests from Louisiana State with major league grace.

But here's where we need ice water.

After four straight wins on home grounds Tulane took to the road for a seven-game jaunt. How it happened no one who stayed at home and eagerly watched the returns can tell. All that can be said is that Tulane road trips the past few years have proved disastrous. This was no exception. We can blame it on tradition. Our pet dropped two straight to Alabama, broke even with Marion Institute, and broke even with Auburn. One of the big surprises was Gillis' hurling a no-hit game against Auburn and then losing. Tulane closed the season by dropping a game to Louisiana State at Baton Rouge, 5 to 4.

Coach Hayes deserves great credit for the team's showing, for it is agreed that developing a team from a field of twenty candidates is one more task. He was the brains of the outfit. Gillis, Gage, Trigg and McLean twirled nice ball; Joe Brown showed rare form behind the bat; Aycock did some remarkable slugging and fielding, and Goodsen, Captain Woodward, Dugas, Magruder, Marston, Taylor and Marett were there in the pinch. Bob Ingram proved an able manager.

Nineteen hundred and fifteen prospects are like the sun. Coach Bruce Hayes, Manager Tim Bernoudy and Captain Joe Brown appear to have the season sewed up already. Each is a distinct type of leader, and the best of it is that everybody is working in harmony, the T. A. A. lending its hearty co-operation.

The "T" men of the 1914 crew were: Brown, Gillis, Gage, Trigg, McLean, W.

Woodward, Marston, Dugas, Magruder, Aycock, Taylor, Goodsen, Marett; Manager, R. Ingram; Coach, Bruce Hayes.

Following is a tabulated account of the 1914 season:

| Tulane | | , | , | , | | | | - | 4 | Ole Miss. | | | , | | | | | 0 |
|--------|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|----|-----------|--|---|---|---|--|---|---|---|
| Tulane | , | | | | | | | | 3 | Ole Miss. | | | | | | | | 2 |
| Tulane | | | | , | | , | | | 3 | L. S. U. | | , | | | | | , | 0 |
| Tulane | | | | | | | | | 12 | L. S. U. | | | | | | , | | 5 |
| Tulane | | | | | | | | | 2 | Alabama | | | | | | | | 3 |
| Tulane | | | | | | | | | 3 | Alabama | | | | | | | | 4 |

| Tulane | , | | | , | | | , | | 6 | Marion | | | | | | | | 7 |
| Tulane | | | | | | | | | 8 | Marion | | | | | | | | 5 |
| Tulane | | | | , | | | | | 0 | Auburn | | | | , | | , | | I |
| Tulane | | | | , | , | | | | 8 | Auburn | | | , | | | | | 6 |
| Tulane | | | | | | | | | 4 | L. S. U. | | | | | | | | 5 |
| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |

A squint at the 1915 schedule convinces that it is a bold and versatile campaign. It includes games with major leaguers, a Northern university of note, representative Southern Universities, and little fellows whom it is always nice to please.

The Nineteen Fourteen Track Season

XCEEDING the expectations of even the most rabid Tulane track enthusiasts, the 1914 track team won the dual meet with L. S. U. held in New Orleans, where every event was fought to the finish, and fought hard, while "the stands went wild;" but for L. S. U. it warn't no use. Ed Faust, Al Carter, Captain Bert Coleman, Fritz Oakes, the Werlein boys, and several other muscular youths wearing Olive and Blue shirts, put it all over the brawny sons of L. S. U., the men who won the S. I. A. A. meet the next week.

Tulane made a favorable showing in the S. I. A. A. meet in Meridian, but not as good as was expected, probably because of over-confidence, and the smoky trail left in the sprints by one Wells, of Mississippi A. & M. To many it may seem that Meridian was our Waterloo, but those who were there do not think so. We were just as strong as the other teams there, but things did not break even for us.

ANOTHER VIEW.—The one thing that beat L. S. U. was having an experienced and competent coach to handle the men. Take Coleman for instance. It was conceded by all that Coleman was fast, but how often did he show his form? Only occasionally.

But as soon as Tad Gormley took charge Bert began to improve and consistently show that he was made of championship material; and so one can go through the team pointing out man after man who was gradually developed into a top-notcher.

The other thing that beat L. S. U. may be expressed in one word, "Goat," When Werlein beat Dutton on the shot-put something seemed to tell us that L. S. U. was beaten.

It is not my purpose to offer excuses or bemoan the fact that we lost the S. I. A. A. meet and title to the Southern Champions. All I have to say is that if we had our same team this year as last, we would pull off a bigger surprise than when we beat L. S. U. last year.

This year we have a new man coaching. We are strangers to each other, but he has good material to work on, some of the men having been in competition for a number of years; so with careful handling and building up where we are weak, Coach Sweetland will be able to make a creditable showing.

The scores of the 1914 Tulane-L. S. U. Meet, held Saturday, May 9, 1914, are as follows:

Tulane Wrestling in Nineteen Fourteen

N the fall of 1913, when Coach Hanson took up his duties as Physical Director, he found no wrestlers or any interest in wrestling at Tulane. He started a wrestling tournament of seven different weights, ranging from 90 to 300 pounds, which was designed to include all students, nearly 100 of whom signed up for the matches. In a year Tulane had won several matches with the Gymnastic Club wrestlers. Hawkins won a bronze medal by throwing St. Aubin, one of the G. C.'s most scientific wrestlers, and Perez of Tulane threw Chapman of G. C., also winning a gold medal. Chapman had not been thrown in six years when Perez pinned him. In the recent all-Southern championship matches held at the New Orleans Athletic Club the following Tulane men won medals and championship titles: Applebaum, bantamweight; Higgins, featherweight; Perez, lightweight; Legett lost on a draw after a hard match (the only match Tulane lost); Hawkins, middleweight; Jerwick, heavyweight. All the five winners of firsts won gold medals. Baldwin and Harris won second prizes, which were silver medals, while Norman won a third prize, a bronze medal. Tulane is very well satisfied with the results attained in one year's work in wrestling, and more success is expected and looked forward to in the future.

Physical Training at Tulane

PHYSICAL training develops co-ordination, which is the power of mind over matter, enabling each student to get under perfect control the appetites, passions and eniotions of the body. It enables the student to do a tremendous amount of mental work without tiring or injuring himself, and teaches self-reliance and self-discipline.

A physical examination is made of all Freshmen, and an Anthropometric Chart is given, showing his physical condition and proportions. At the end of the school year a second Anthropometric Chart is made and the result of the year's work ascertained. As an example of the results of one year's work, one student gained from 10°, to 60°, in physical condition, 25 pounds in weight, 13⁄4 inches in breadth of shoulders, 31⁄2 inches in chest dimensions, 11⁄2 inches in biceps, etc. Each student who systematically keeps up in the work during the school year should at least increase 15°, or 20°, and gain from 10 to 15 pounds.

The gymnasium is equipped with modern, up-to-date apparatus, such as horizontal bars, parallel bars, rings, chest machines, punching bags, horses, dumb-bells, wands, Indian clubs, handball, basketball and baseball, and volley-ball courts, wrestling mats, jumping standards, etc.

The Season

Tulane started off in great shape, but owing to adverse circumstances (see newspapers of February) the team became disorganized to such an extent that most of the games were not played.

When it comes to playing the game, though, those men above are birds, and next season, under more favorable conditions, Tulane seems bound to clean up the Southern basketball map like a cow licking paint off a fence.

BIRD'S - EYE - VIEW

Why is Mr. Woodward's head like Heaven?

Because there is neither Parting nor dy(e)ing there.

If you heard these things on the Arcade, would you know who was being talked about?

"The girl with the soulless laugh."

"Plato," "Pet," "Izzie," "Guites."

"That Freshman who is engaged."

"That conceited Freshman who thinks she is a shark at debating."

"He stopped his Ford and asked if he couldn't take her the rest of the way to college."

"Him," in connection with history.

Senior—Why did you let that car go by, Dorothy; it's 8:20 already.

Dorothy (brilliant Junior)—Those new St. Charles cars are too slow. I'm going to wait for an old car.

"Many are called, but few are chosen," ls what the Scriptures say,

And this applies to the good and bad

When called on Judgment Day.

Professor Creighton uses this phrase In an entirely different way; He refers to those who fail to pass On Examination Day.

-Shakesfellow.

Tulanus' Punctured Romance

An Allegorical Satire (With apologies to the Author of Everywoman).

CAST OF CHARACTERS

TULANUS, King of Utopia. HARD LEE ANYBODY, his friend. LACK O'COLLEGE SPIRIT, a witch. EXPENSE, her offspring.

Dance Craze, subject of Tulanus.

Athleticus, subject of Tulanus.

(Tulanus and Dance Craze discovered, the former anxiously reading a letter, the latter doing a few steps.)

Dan.—Hast thou seen the latest step, my lord? It goes like this. Look. Tia da da, tia da da, tia da da (dancing).

Tul.—Oh, do not bother me with thy steps. I am worried about my teams.

Dan.—I know that one who is a promoter of so many athletic ventures must needs have his worries, but what sayest thou if we hie us to the Jardin de Dance and shakest a foot?

Tul.—Avaunt and tempt me not. Listen to this letter I received this morning. (Reads.) "Tulanus, King of Utopia: Several of your subjects have been rudely devoured by the famous Tiger that has been roaming about the Kingdom. Of recent date he has eaten up two of your basketball teams—" Now I ask you if that is not enough to drive a man mad? The Kingdom will go broke if this keeps up. The treasury depends to a great extent upon these athletic-promoting ventures of mine, and here this beast, this Tiger, is creating havoc among my subjects.

Dan .- Why not get some one to kill him?

Tul.—'Tis not an easy matter.

Dan.—Of course, I'd be willing to do it but I have so many dance engagements, you know.

Tul.—Yes, I know; that's what they all say. I doubt if I could get anybody to kill him. Hardly anybody would do it. Hardly anybody.

(Hard Lee Anybody enters.)

Har.—Aha, I heard you speak my name.

Tul.—Your name?

Har.—Yes. Dost not know me? I am Hard Lee Anybody. When Tulanus is in trouble I come forth to help him out. I am always on hand in all movements for the benefit of the Kingdom.

Tul.—Oh, Hard Lee Anybody, I know you. You go to a lot of my athletic contests. Har.—True, I buy season tickets and sign notes. I am always willing to attend all meetings and pay my poll tax. But, Your Majesty, I come to warn you of a grave danger.

Tul.—More Tiger talk?

Har.—Worse than that; the witch is loose.

Tul. and Dan. (together)—The witch? Which witch?

Har.—Aye, the witch who lives in Audubon. I saw her on the streets and I think she means some mischief to you.

Tul.—Gadzooks! More trouble. Tigers and witches. A beautiful mixup.

Dan.—I—I think I have a dance engagement. (Exit hurriedly.)

Har.—H'm! Hard Lee Anybody likes to be around when trouble is brewing. What is this talk about the Tiger?

Tul.—Why, he broke loose and devoured two of my subjects. Look at this letter.

Har.—Broke loose? I thought you had tied him in footfall season.

Tul.—I did, but you know they say a cat has nine lives, and a tiger is some sort of a cat. And—

Witch (entering)—Ah, there you are. (Tul and Har. exhibit signs of terror.)

Har.—It's the witch. (Tul. runs to Har.) Fear not, Hard Lee Anybody will protect you.

Tul. (to witch, timidly)—Who are you? What is your name?

Wit.—Hazel.

Tul. and Har. (together)—Witch Hazel?

Wit.—Yea, and I have come to bewitch you, to cast a spell upon you. They call me Hazel, but I'll tell thee my real name. It is Lack O'College Spirit.

Har.—Lack O'College Spirit? What a queer name.

Wit.—Well, I have many others that may suit ye better. I have been called Laziness and Dissension, but my real name is Lack O'College Spirit. I hate you, Tulanus. I hate all good people. I hate Freshmen, and when they come into your kingdom I try to poison them. And now do you know what I am going to do to you?

Tul. (resignedly)—Poison me.

Wit.—No-o-o. (Tul. and Har. business.)

Tul.—I give up then. What?

Wit.—I have a son—a son, d'ye hear? His name is Expense. He will keep you down in your athletic ventures. From this day forth you shall go your way chained to Expense. When it comes to athletics, Expense is a bird. He'll keep you down. He is my son. He is the offspring of Lack O'College Spirit. D'ye hear me. You will be chained to him, ye hear? Ha! ha! ha! Chained to him. Ha! ha! ha! (Exit.)

(Tul. and Har. clasp each other.)

Tul.—Phew. Tigers and Witches. Enough to kill a man. Verily, I have my troubles with the Tiger and Lack O'College Spirit. And now comes Expense. What do you think she meant by "chaining me to Expense"?

Har.—Oh, nothing probably; just idle talk. Hard Lee Anybody pays attention to talk about Lack O'College Spirit or Expense. I will see to it for you.

Tul.—I wish you would.

Expense (entering—he is a very grotesque character)—Come with me. Come with me.

Tul.—Who are you?

Har.-Who are you?

Exp.—Don't you know me? I am Expense, the offspring of Lack O'College Spirit. My father is Hard Times. I have a cousin named Warren—Warren Europe. Don't know me? Well, you ought to. You have not given one football, basketball or baseball game without me. Expense is everywhere. You can't make a turn without me.

Tul.—Yes, I must say your face is familiar.

Exp.—Sure, we've been a good while together, only you never knew it.

Har.—Hard Lee Anybody knew it.

Tul.—'Tis true Hard Lee Anybody knew it.

Exp. (to Har.)—You shut up.

Har.—All right.

Exp.—You see Hard Lee Anybody shuts up when you tell him to. (To Tul.) Well, as for you, come, I am going to be chained to you forever.

Tul. and Har. (together)—Forever?

Exp.—Yes, forever. There's only one possible chance of you ever getting rid of me.

Tul.—Tell me what it is.

Exp.—Oh, what's the use. Come on.

Tul.—Come. Tell us. How can we break the charm?

Exp. (taking them by the hands)—Listen. When my mother, Lack O'College Spirit exerts a spell it is hard to shake it off. The only way you can break the charm is to get some one to kill that Tiger.

Tul.—The Tiger again. (Tul. and Har. weep on each other's shoulder.)

Exp.—Come on, cut the weeps. We must go to be hooked up together.

Tul.—Hooked up? Where?

Har.—At Gretna. Come. (Exit, leaving Har. weeping.)

(Dance Craze enters.)

Dan.—Ah! Hard Lee Anybody is weeping.

Har.—Yes, Hard Lee Anybody is crying because Tulanus is chained up with Expense.

Dan.—What? Is Tulanus burdened with Expense? I didn't know anything about it.

Har.—Of course not. You go to too many dances. You never think about Tulanus. And now he is chained up with Expense. A witch did it—Lack O'College Spirit. You should have seen Expense. He is a horrible sight.

Dan.—Isn't there any chance of breaking the charm?

Har.—Only one chance. Some one must kill the Tiger.

Dan. (uneasy)—What, the Tiger? The ferocious man-eating beast that eats up one of the king's subjects every once in a while?

Har.—The same; but listen, I have a plan. Hard Lee Anybody has a good idea. I have a plan to rid the kingdom of this bugaboo and thereby rid Tulanus of the loath-some Expense. Come, let's talk it over. (Har. and Dan. leave, arm in arm.)

(Enter Tul. and Exp. They are now chained together.)

Exp. (droning)—$10 for this, $20 for that, $100 here, $200 there, $10 for this, $20 for that, $100 here—

Tul.—Shut up for the love of Michael. I am tired of you, Expense! Expense! Expense! Expense! Haven't you any other name?

Exp.—Yes, I have another name.

Tul.—What is it?

Exp.—Bill. Ha! ha! ha! Bill. $10 for this—

Tul.—Cease your droning and take off this chain. I have some business to attend to.

Exp.—What business?

Tul.—I have to go see about some equipment for a team I am backing.

Exp.—You can't.

Tul.—Why?

Exp.—Because Expense won't let you. Equipment costs a lot of money.

(Enter Har. and Dan.)

Har.—My lord, I have a plan—a plan to get volunteers to kill the Tiger.

Tul.—At last. Well, out with it.

Dan.—It's this. He wants to get all your subjects together and read an appeal to them, asking for a volunteer to do the mighty job.

Tul.—Sounds good, but will it work?

Har.—Sure; we'll have a petition printed and I will read it to them.

Exp.—No you won't have it printed; it costs money; $10 for this, $20 for that.

Har. (to Tul.)—Then you write one while I go get the boys together. (Exit.)

(Tul. begins business of writing and all are excited.)

Exp.—Don't use too much paper, it costs money.

Har. (entering)—My lord, I can't get them to come together.

Tul.—I thought as much. I have a hard time getting them to come together.

Har.—Nearly everybody has some excuse to offer. Either he is busy or he has something else to do.

Tul.—I have it. Tell them we will give them a banquet. That ought to fetch 'em.

Exp.—No banquet. It costs.

Tul.-Well, then, a free lunch.

Har.—All right, a free lunch.

Tul.—And also a keg—two kegs. (Har. exits shouting.)

Har. (without)—Free lunch—free lunch and kegs. (Mob without shouts.)

(Those on stage anxiously watch his efforts till he re-enters.)

Har. (re-enters)—I've got them now, my lord. They're coming.

(376)

Tul. (excitedly)—Here, here's the paper. (Mob quiets down as Har, begins to read.)

Har. (reads)—"Beloved subjects of Tulanus: His Majesty, King of Utopia, has been bewitched by Lack O'College Spirit. He must go about chained to Expense unless you come to his aid. The only condition on which the witch will release him is this: One of his subjects must kill the ferocious Tiger that roams about the kingdom. Won't some one of you volunteer for the honor of Tulanus?" (Mob shouts.) (Har. continues:) Well, you can't all do it. Will some one please step up?

Ath. (rushing in)—I will do it.

Har.—Who are you?

Tul.—He is my old friend, Athleticus. A little out of condition, but you'll do. Go forth and do him up for the honor of Tulanus.

Ath.—Leave it to me. Leave it to me. (Exit.)

(Business by all as if witnessing the fight off stage between Ath, and the Tiger. Action very fast and excited. Finally great cheering by the mob and Tulanus shouts.)

Tul.—He's got him. He is coming this way. At last Expense I am rid of you. (The chain is broken.)

(Ath. rushes in with the dead Tiger by the tail, amid cheers of all.) (Curtain.)

Stude Stories

We doubt if a drearier chapter of Tulane will ever be written than that of "Keno" Corbin chasing Dean Dinwiddie around Gibson Hall at midnight with a brick.

LOST—One good-looking Chief Engineer of Survey Camp. Finder will please return to Clarabel. "Gee! but my hands hurt!"

Thrilling new melodrama in five reels! "When Submarines Invade the Gee Sea!" Cast of characters includes "Abie" Goldberg, one G. C., porter, and a boathook.

The Hobo Engineer

"I've often tried to settle down
To office work and live in town
And act like civilized folks do,
Take in the shows and dances, too;
But I'd no more than get a start
When wanderlust would seize my heart,

And at the chance I'd never fail
To drop it all and hit the trail
Back to the solitudes again
With transit, level, rod and chain,
To lead the simple life once more."

ROBERT SHARP, A.M., Ph.D., President

The University, in all its departments, is located in the City of New Orleans, the metropolis of the South. There are eleven departments, with twenty-four buildings. Modern dormitories, extensive laboratories, libraries, and museums.

- THE COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES, for men, offers full courses in Literature and Science. There are many scholarships in this College open to high school graduates.
- THE COLLEGE OF TECHNOLOGY offers unexcelled full four-year courses in the following schools: Mechanical-Electrical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Chemistry and Chemical Engineering, Architecture and Architectural Engineering.
- THE NEWCOMB COLLEGE offers full courses in Literature, History and Science; in the School of Art every facility for the study and practice of industrial and fine arts, with picture galleries and an art library; in the School of Music superior facilities for the study of Music in all its branches; in the School of Household Economy professional, special and elective courses in Domestic Science and Domestic Art. Special training for prospective teachers of high and elementary schools.
- THE FACULTY OF GRADUATE STUDIES, open to graduates of approved colleges, offers advanced courses leading to the degrees of A.M., M.E., C.E., Ch.E., and Ph.D. A number of Fellowships are awarded annually.
- THE COLLEGE OF LAW offers two complete three-year courses, each leading to the degree of Bachelor of Laws; one to prepare students for practice in Common Law States, the other to prepare students for practice in Louisiana.
- THE COLLEGE OF MEDICINE, embracing:
 - THE SCHOOL OF MEDICINE, established in 1834, with unexcelled laboratory and clinical advantages, offers a five-year course to High School graduates.
 - THE POST-GRADUATE SCHOOL OF MEDICINE, established in 1888, as the New Orleans Polyclinic. Graduate courses offered in all fields of medicine, including research.
 - THE SCHOOL OF HYGIENE AND TROPICAL MEDICINE, offers short courses in public health and tropical medicine. Regular courses for degrees of D.P.H. and D.T.M.H., etc.
 - THE SCHOOL OF PHARMACY, established in 1838. Degrees of Ph.G. (2 years), Ph.C. (3 years), and Pharm.D. (4 years), offered. Women admitted on same terms as men.
 - THE SCHOOL OF DENTISTRY (formerly New Orleans College of Dentistry), offers a full three-years' course leading to the degree of D.D.S., with practically unlimited clinical material.
- THE COLLEGE OF COMMERCE AND BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION offers substantial professional training preparing for a business career.

SHIRT HISTORY AND GARTER HISTORY
ARE MUCH THE SAME

In the Ivory Garter we did away with metal clasps and buckles that rust—with heavy pads; with tight, binding materials and garters that tear the socks.

We constructed a light, sanitary garter that is cool, comfortable and long-wearing—it simply shatters every garter grudge you ever had and it stretches a quarter's buying power away out. Buy

Children's Hours Should be from 9 to 4

We handle them more successfully when there is plenty of light. Other people, when feeling well and in a happy frame of mind, may come any time between 8 A.M. and 5 P.M.

Don't Drill—

The child in how it should act before the camera

Such treatment only serves to make it self-conscious. We'll get a more natural childlike picture if you will just bring it down to "see the toys."

Scared to Death, Almost

Are some of the children that are brought to us

Of course they have been informed beforehand of the purpose in view—a great mistake. But we never fail to get a pretty, laughing childlike picture of them, because we thoroughly understand child nature, and have the necessary patience.

There is a Difference

There is just as great a difference between our pictures and the "other kind" as there is between a $1,000 painting and a 10-cent chromo. However, there seems to be a few people who have not noticed the dissimilarity. Pictures are "out of their line" maybe.

Good Typewriting Requires a Good Operator and a Good Typewriter

The typewriting that is demanded throughout the business world to-day is neat, properly aligned, clean-cut and free from errors.

The L. C. Smith & Bros. typewriter is built to produce this kind of "copy."

The mechanical ideas worked out in this machine all lead to Typewriter Efficiency. Every part that is in constant use—the carriage, the typebar joints and the capital shift—are ball bearing.

This means ease of operation, durability and accuracy.
